Bones By Sadru Kassam

A corrupt health inspector who only awards license to those who give him 'bones' (money). He even pockets the butcher's pen, which shows the total lack of morality and how rotten his character is.

Sadru Kassam, a teacher who was born in Mombasa in 1941 and graduated from Makerere with honors in English, is unique for writing in Swahili. His humorous but politically pointed play "Mifupa"(Bones), about an African butcher who had to give "key money" to get his license renewed, was performed twenty times throughout Uganda in 1965, the first year of the Makerere Travelling Theatre.
