

New York, behind the Public Library, memorial to Gertrude Stein. October 1948. "Everybody's Autobiography, just what I tell you or what she is so thinking that we are more there and you hear accidentally that . . ." ("Cousinhood"). (Jacques Derrida Archive)

Caroline Malina and Jacques Derrida, working session for Causes just at the Louvre, Paris, 4 November 1981. (Eric Jacoff)

Eric Jacoff acted as much more than a witness to, or cartographer of, the comings and goings that constitute this book. Solicitous host and vigilant advisor, present at every stage of its progress, he took an active part in the composition of the work, for which we thank him sincerely.

Counterpath is a collaborative work by Catherine Malabou and Jacques Derrida that answers to the gamble inherent in the idea of "travelling with" the philosopher of deconstruction. Malabou's readerly text of quotations and commentary demonstrates how Derrida's work, while appearing to be anything but a travelogue, is nevertheless replete with references to geographical and topographical locations, and functions as a kind of counter-Odyssey through meaning, theorizing, and thematizing ...
