Designing the Molecular World: Chemistry at the Frontier ...

Designing the molecular world : chemistry at the frontier. [Philip Ball] -- Some of the most exciting scientific developments in recent years have come not from theoretical physicists, astronomers, or molecular biologists but instead from the chemistry lab. Chemists have created superconducting ceramics for brain scanners, designed liquid crystal flat screens for televisions and watch displays, and made fabrics that change color while you wear them. They have fashioned metals from plastics, drugs from crude oil, and have pinpointed the chemical pollutants ...

You'll find clear and illustrative discussion of these current topics in Philip Ball's "Designing the Molecular World." Though the impact of chemistry is ubiquitous, the author contends about the usual emphasis and coverage on physics, astronomy and biology. I tend to agree with this point as one might not even find a chemistry section in a decent-sized independent bookstore. Major chains would have one yet the selection is unfortunately poor with titles like "Chemistry the Easy Way." Ball ...
