John Shearman's Only Connect . . . (recipient of the College Art Association's Porter Book Prize) is conversational in tone, reflecting its origins in the auditorium. "Connection" implies both physical surroundings - placement, ambient lighting - and also the cultural environment of a monument and of its beholder, his or her social, psychological, spiritual situation. In this regard, one must distinguish the response of the original audience from the response of subsequent viewers ...

Art can connect strangers with similar passions. Fans of my Vanishing Austin photography series often get in touch to sound the alarm when another iconic Austin landmark faces the wrecking ball. Everyone recognizes the desire to make a place immortal when immortality can never be achieved. Art can serve that purpose for some: a photograph of a lost place offers some solace to its mourners ...

Je m'intéresse à une historiographie de l'art à la jonction entre l'histoire du goût et l'histoire sociale, et c'est dans cette perspective que j'ai commencé à explorer les travaux de Gustav F. Waagen (1794-1868). Outre un article publié en 2015 dans la Revue Germanique Internationale, j'ai eu l'occasion de présenter de nouvelles pistes de réflexion lors de la ...
