Sound-Shadows of the New World by Ved Mehta

Sound of the Shadows has a light touch with effects. Double tracking is used mainly for harmony guitar and is used sparingly. Thus 90% or more of what you hear on this album is the actual sound of the Shadows. Another advantage of using simpler recording techniques is a purer drum sound, not the over amplified and electronically enhanced sound of today's drum recordings. The older recordings ...

This account by the well known Indian/American blind writer describes experiences when he came to the United States at age 15 from New Delhi to attend the Arkansas School for the Blind. The title derives from an unusual ability (which Mehta possesses) to navigate one's way by perceiving the physical surroundings "as sound-shadows by means of echoing sound and changes of air pressure around ...

Sound Shadows of the New World

In Sound-Shadows of the New World Mehta recalls lovingly the years of growth and struggle with thoughtful introspection, humor, and a sense of dignity. He left the Arkansas school to journey to California to begin college life and a writing career nourished by the often painful lessons of adolescence. These are lessons that all young people will understand. Mary T. Gerrity, Queen Anne School ...
